I

A. Read the two texts. Pick out the sentence that best expresses the main idea of Text A and another that best expresses the main idea of Text B:

1. Mike does not like giving autographs.
2. Brenda wishes everybody had the same rights and opportunities.
3. Brenda is worried about war in the world.
4. Mike hopes he will be a famous basketball player one day.
5. Basketball players wear personalized shoes.

Text A

I have a dream about playing basketball. I would be in the NBA and be the leading player in every game I play. I would be on the Bulls, and also on basketball cards all over the world. When I would play, people would cheer for me and have my name on t-shirts. Best of all, I would have personalized shoes, and cologne named after me.

One bad thing about this dream is that you wouldn't have any privacy. If you tried to go to a supermarket, people would flood in just to see you and they would ask you for autographs. Because they'd do this, I'd get pretty mad.

I'd like being a professional basketball player, but I prefer playing college basketball. There's less pressure on you, and fewer people watching you.

This is my dream, and I hope it comes true.

Mike, California, USA

Text B

I have a dream that one day all children and citizens of the universe will have the same rights and opportunities. I have a dream that when an infant is born, no matter in which city, race or family, his or her future will not be sealed in poverty but prosperity.

I have a dream that the tired and weak in India, the starving in Africa and the people in war-stricken Bosnia, will one day have a comfortable life like people in the industrialized countries.

I have a dream today that tomorrow all diseases will be cured, so that the agonized suffering of the young and old will no longer continue. My hope is not only that the diseases will be cured, but that when they are cured, the treatments will be available to every living human, not only those who can afford it.

I have a dream that my children, and my children's children, and people from every city of every country will live and grow in peace, not war. I dream that a child will not go to sleep at night to the sound of gunfire, but to a lullaby sung by his or her parents. And that that child will not wake terrified in the middle of the night because he/she does not know which of his/her family members will die the following day.

Now you know my dream. Although it may be a dream today, I hope that it will become a reality tomorrow.

Brenda, Indiana, USA
